Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to announce that Courtney Moriarta will be joining NYSERDA on February 4th as the Director of NYSERDA's Single Family Market-Rate Residential programs.

Courtney brings a wealth of experience and market insights in residential energy efficiency and building retrofits ranging from driving public policy at the state and federal levels, engaging with utilities and service providers, and overseeing field crews to deliver building projects. Previously, Courtney has worked at Conservation Services Group, Building Performance Institute, Steven Winter Associates, and CSRA Inc. among others. She earned her Bachelor of Science degree in building technology and civil engineering from MIT.

Courtney will be a critical member of the New York team in charting a path forward to a vibrant residential energy efficiency market, as New York pursues its ambitious clean energy agenda.

Sincerely,
NYSERDA's Single Family Residential Team
